Client Categorization Notice

3. Request for Different Categorization

3.1 The Firm may allow a Professional Client or an Eligible Counterparty to request re-categorization as a Client that benefits from a higher degree of protection.

3.2 A firm will therefore notify a client that is categorised as a professional client or an eligible counterparty of its right to request a different categorization whether or not the firm will agree to such requests. However, a firm need only notify a client of a right to request a different categorization involving a lower level of protection if it is prepared to consider such requests.

3.3 It is the responsibility of a Professional Client or Eligible Counterparty to ask for a higher level of protection when he/she/they deems he/she/they are unable to properly assess or manage the risks involved.

3.4 The Firm may, either on its own initiative or at the request of the Client concerned:

(1) treat as a professional client or a retail client a client that might otherwise be categorised as a per se eligible counterparty;

(2) treat as a retail client a client that might otherwise be categorised as a per se professional client;

and if it does so, the client will be re-categorised accordingly.

3.5 If a per se eligible counterparty requests treatment as a client whose business with the firm is subject to conduct of business protections, but does not expressly request treatment as a retail client and the firm agrees to that request, the firm must treat that eligible counterparty as a professional client.

3.6 (1) If, a per se professional client or a per se eligible counterparty requests treatment as a retail client, the client will be classified as a retail client if it enters into a written agreement with the firm to the effect that it will not be treated as a professional client or eligible counterparty for the purposes of the applicable conduct of business regime.

(2) This agreement must specify the scope of the re-categorization, such as whether it applies to one or more particular services or transactions, to one or more types of product or transaction or to one or more rules.

3.7 (1) In accordance with the principle 'communications with clients', if a firm at its own initiative re- categorises a client in accordance with this section, it should notify that client of its new category under this section.

(2) If the firm already has an agreement with the client, it should also consider any contractual requirements concerning the amendment of that agreement.

3.8 The ways in which a client may be provided with additional protections under this section include re- categorization:

(1) on a general basis; or

(2) on a trade by trade basis; or

(3) in respect of one or more specified rules; or

(4) in respect of one or more particular services or transactions; or

(5) in respect of one or more types of product or transaction.

3.9 Re-categorising a client as a retail client under this section does not necessarily mean it will become an eligible complainant under SCB rules.

3.10 If the Firm becomes aware that a Client no longer fulfils the initial conditions that made him/her/they eligible for categorization as an Elective Professional Client, the firm will take the appropriate action.

3.11 Where the appropriate action involves re-categorising that client as a Retail Client, the Firm will notify that Client of its new categorization.

4. Protection Rights

4.1 Retail Clients / Professional Clients

4.1.1 Where the Firm treats the Client as a Retail Client, he/she/they will be afforded with the highest level of protection under the regulations, more so than a Professional Client or Eligible Counterparty.

4.1.2 A Retail Client will for example be given more information and disclosures with regard to the Firm, its products, services, charges, and commission charges. The Firm is required to ensure the safeguarding of Client instruments and the segregation of Client money from the Firm's own money which must be held in designated client bank accounts as per SCB rules.

4.1.3 The Firm must comply with SCB rules to ensure that all Retail Client money is protected and fully segregated. The Firm clearly distinguishes client money from its own by holding such funds in segregated client bank accounts. Segregation of client money ensures that in the event the Firm becomes insolvent, funds held in these accounts will be returned to the clients, minus the administrators' cost in handling and distributing these funds, instead of being treated as recoverable assets by general creditors of the Firm.

4.1.4 In the event the Firm's bank holding client money on behalf of the Firm goes into liquidation (secondary pooling), any losses would be shared by the Retail Client in proportion to their share of total funds held with a bank which has failed.

4.1.5 The Firm shall be entitled to assume that a Professional Client has the necessary experience and knowledge in order to understand the risks involved in relation to the Firm's particular investment services, transactions, or products, for which the Client has been assessed for appropriateness and is classified as a Professional Client.

4.1.6 Professional Clients are afforded significantly fewer protections than those afforded to Retail Clients. Professional Clients may lose their right to refer complaints to the regulator. Some Professional Clients and Eligible Counterparties such as large institutions and regulated Firms will not be considered as an eligible complainant.

4.1.7 The Firm may provide Professional Clients with financial promotions that may not have been approved by an approved person authorised by the SCB and which may not conform to the rules issues by the SCB. As a Professional Client should be in a position to understand and make proper evaluation of the risks involved in investing in such promotions.

4.1.8 When executing orders, investment firms and credit institutions providing investment services must take all reasonable steps to achieve what is called "best execution" of the Client's orders; that is, to obtain the best possible result for their Clients.

4.1.9 Where the Firm executes an order on behalf of a Retail Client, the best possible result shall be determined in terms of the total consideration, representing the price of the financial instrument and the costs related to execution, which shall include all expenses incurred by the Client which are directly related to the execution of the order, including execution venue fees, clearing and settlement fees and any other fees paid to third parties involved in the execution of the order. Further information can be found on TigerWit's Order Execution Policy.

4.1.10 When providing Professional Client with best execution the Company is not required to prioritise the overall costs of the transaction as being the most important factor in achieving best execution for them.

4.1.11 (a) Investment firms and credit institutions providing investment services must obtain from clients such information as is necessary for the firm or credit institution, as the case may be, to understand the essential facts about the client and to have a reasonable basis for believing, giving due consideration to the nature and extent of the service provided, that the specific transaction to be recommended, or entered into in the course of providing a portfolio management service, satisfies the following criteria:

- (i) It meets the investment objectives of the Client in question;

In addition, under certain circumstances, the Firm shall be entitled to assume that a Professional Client is able financially to bear any investment risks consistent with its investment objectives.

4.1.12 (b) The Firm must inform retail clients of material difficulties relevant to the proper carrying out of their order(s) promptly upon becoming aware of the difficulty.

4.1.13 (c) The Firm is required to provide Retail Clients;

(i) With more information than Professional Clients as regards to the execution of orders, other than for portfolio management

(ii) With periodic statements in respect of portfolio management activities carried out on their behalf, more frequently than for Professional Clients

4.1.14 (d) If the Firm provides an investment service other than investment advice to a new Retail Client, the Firm must enter into a written basic agreement with the Client, setting out the essential rights and obligations of the Firm and the Client.

4.2 Eligible Counterparties

4.2.1 Where the Firm treats the Client as an Eligible Counterparty, the Client will be entitled to fewer protections under the law than he/she/they would be entitled to as a Professional Client. In particular, and in addition to the above:

4.2.2 (a) The Firm is not required to provide the Client with best execution in executing the Client's orders;

4.2.3 (b) The Firm is not required to disclose Client Information regarding any fees or commissions that the Firm pays or receives;

4.2.4 (c) The Firm is not required to assess the suitability or appropriateness of a product or service that it provides to the Client but can assume that the Client has the expertise to choose the most appropriate product or service for him/her/they and that he/she/they is/are able financially to bear any investment objectives;

4.2.5 (d) The Firm is not required to provide the Client information about the Firm, its services and the arrangements through which the Firm will be remunerated;

4.2.6 (e) The Firm is not required to provide the Client with risk disclosures on the products or services that he/she/they select/s from the Firm; and

4.2.7 (f) The Firm is not required to provide reports to the Client on the execution of his/her/their orders or the management of his/her/their investments.
